Southfield, MI - Patriot Services Corporation's Vice President, Scott Hiipakka, was a speaker at the National Association of County and City Health Officials (NACHHO) Public Health Preparedness Summit Conference held February 21-23, 2007 in Washington, DC. The conference was attended by numerous federal and state agencies, public health and hospital staff, as well as emergency management officials. Mr. Hiipakka conducted a seminar on the Department of Homeland Security's Exercise and Evaluation Program (HSEEP). His session addressed the concepts of HSEEP, exercise planning, execution, and evaluation, as well as provided numerous tips for exercises for public health staff.

"Exercises are great way to identify an agency's overall preparedness level as well as individual staff and agency capabilities. HSEEP provides a standardized method for exercise design, execution, and evaluation and it is extremely important that agencies adopt it in order to contribute to National Preparedness" stated Mr. Hiipakka.
