Clawson, MI. When the State of Nevada Department of Public Safety, Division of Emergency Management looked to select a partner to train the first responders and continuity planners from the Federal, State, and Local Government and their private sector in large scale disaster, emergency, and terrorism exercise planning, they turned to Patriot Services Corporation of Clawson, Michigan.

Patriot Services was selected in open competition with several larger Defense and Homeland Security Contractors from across the United States. National preparedness is a critical goal of State Governments and a key component of National Preparedness is the conduct of realistic and capabilities based exercises. The two year Nevada contract includes training sessions for over 100 public sector agencies and private companies throughout the state. This contract required Patriot Services Corporation to custom design and tailor a course based upon FEMA and DHS guidelines for disaster and Homeland Security Exercise Design and Evaluation. In early 2006, this training has taken place in Carson City, Reno and Las Vegas.

As is evident in Nevada contract, Patriot Services Corporation continues to exceed client expectations in an ever expanding and increasing scope of contracts. This is further evidenced through several successful homeland security projects ranging from large full scale disaster and emergency exercises in Michigan, critical infrastructure projects in Florida, and school emergency preparedness projects in Michigan, New Jersey and Ohio.

Patriot Services Corporation is a 100% veteran owned business that provides specialized advisory services regarding homeland security, business continuity, and emergency preparedness requirements including: critical infrastructure protection, NIMS Compliance, large scale exercise design and evaluation, and custom designed or FEMA/DHS approved training courses. Patriot Services currently has clients and project work in Florida, Nevada, Ohio, Indiana, Michigan and New Jersey.
